General Guidelines

Submissions

Nominations and applications are to be submitted to the SOGC's National Office. Eligible applications must be duly completed and must meet all listed criteria.

Deadline

Applications must be postmarked no later than the deadline indicated for each award, bursary, or grant. Entries received past the deadline will not be considered.

Judging

Each member of the selection committee shall be given an opportunity to review and rank the applications and to approve or decline the award, bursary, or grant according to pre-established selection criteria.

SOGC Awards, Bursaries, and Grants Program

Awards, bursaries, and grants are limited to those listed in this document. Please note that these can be cancelled, restricted, or modified without notice.

Presentation

The presentation shall be at the Awards Ceremony of the SOGC's Annual Clinical Meeting (ACM) unless otherwise specified.

Recipient Information

A summary of the recipient's biography, a photograph, and a brief description of the project or achievement may be requested for communication purposes. The SOGC reserves the right to publish a recipient's name, occupation, picture, and description of project/accomplishments.

Disclosure

Applicants receiving additional subsidies or grants for the intended project are to declare these in their application.

Waiting Period

Previous awardees can re-apply for the same award after a three-year waiting period. Unsuccessful applicants are encouraged to update their application and re-submit for consideration the following year.

Definitions

Awards

Awards handed out by the Society of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists of Canada are based on nominations and recognition. Aside from the Journalism Awards and the Abstract Awards, most do not include a monetary reward and do not require submissions of proposals.

Bursaries

A bursary handed out by the Society of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists of Canada is defined as a monetary award that is given to an applicant submitting a proposal to assist in their professional development. The purpose of this bursary is to encourage exposure to new fields for these eligible candidates. The suitable candidates for such bursaries (physicians, nurses and mid-wives and ob/gyn residents) are encouraged to apply.

Grants

A grant handed out by the Society of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists of Canada is defined as a monetary reward that is given to an applicant, such as an ob/gyn resident, who is submitting a proposal to successfully complete an elective training and who is in need of financial assistance to do so.

Awards

President's Award

Description

The President's Award is the highest recognition awarded to a member for outstanding contributions and commitment to women's health and ongoing support to the specialty and the SOGC. The SOGC would like to recognize an outstanding physician in Canada for a contribution which best reflects the objectives of the Society. The individual must be in practice for a number of years and have demonstrated leadership qualities at the national and/or international level.

Award

This prestigious award is presented during the Annual Clinical Meeting's Awards Ceremony and publicized nationally. The recipient's name appears on a plaque at the SOGC's National Office. The recipient will also receive a $1,000 prize. The President of the SOGC puts forward a nomination that is discussed and approved by SOGC Executive and Council during its winter meeting.

Eligibility

- Member obstetrician/gynaecologist of the SOGC in good standing;
- Present or past committee or Council member;
- Made significant contributions over a consistent period of time to SOGC projects and programs nationally and/or internationally;
- Actively advocates on behalf of SOGC and for women's health; and
- Recognized as a leader in their field of either obstetrics, gynaecology or a subspecialty.

Communication Plan

The recipient of this award shall submit a one page biography, an electronic picture as well as a copy of his or her acceptance speech. In addition to being widely distributed across Canada to medical journals such as The Medical Post and L'Actualité Médicale, these will be sent to all major national newspapers as a press release. Particular care will also be directed to highlight this award in the regional newspapers of the province of the award recipient.

Benefits to the Award Recipient

The award recipient will receive complimentary registration to any regional meetings during a one year period from June to May. The award recipient will be offered to present at three of the regional meetings in the coming year (excluding the ICME meeting). He or she will give a talk of his/her choice on an issue of women's health. This lecture will be designated "The Presidential Award Lecture". He or she will receive a travel and hotel accommodation subsidy reimbursement to present at these three regional meetings of his/her choice. At the ACM, where the recipient is given the award, the registration fee will be waived, and two hotel nights and economy travel will be paid.

Application Deadline

The President of the SOGC may submit one nomination by February 1st of each year.

Nomination and Selection

Nomination is by the current SOGC President and is approved at the March Executive and Council meetings.

- Actively advocates on behalf of the SOGC for Women's Health; and
- Recognized as a leader in their field of either obstetrics, gynaecology or subspecialty.

Communication Plan

A picture with the name of the award recipient would be published in the SOGC News and sent to Canadian medical journals such as The Medical Post and L'Actualité Médical.

Benefits to the Award Recipient

The award recipient would receive a free registration to attend any of our regional meetings over a two year period.

Application Deadline

The nomination can be submitted by any current Council Member and should be submitted to the SOGC by February 1st each year.

Nomination and Selection

The Executive Committee would make a recommendation for final approval by Council at the March meeting.

Bursaries and Grants

SOGC International Development Grant for Volunteers

Description

The purpose of this grant is to assist SOGC obstetrician/gynaecologist members who wish to pursue volunteer obstetric and/or gynaecology clinical work in developing countries. The volunteer work should consist of an active and practical experience related to clearly defined medical and/or health related community objectives in a developing country. Additional support (in the form of small honorariums and/or per diems) is permissible with application of this grant.

Grant

The recipient will be provided $3,750 for a six-month term to a maximum of $15,000 for a two-year continuous term (prorated depending on the length of the assignment). The grant is provided to assist with travel and accommodation expenses during the stay outside Canada. Grant recipients will be recognized at the Annual Clinical Meeting's Awards Ceremony.

Time and location of tenure

The volunteer work is to be accomplished in a clinical setting in a developing country, starting within the year following the date that the grant was awarded.

Eligibility

- Canadian obstetrician/gynaecologist members of SOGC in good standing;
- Work on a volunteer basis in a developing country hospital, institution or non-governmental organization;
- The volunteer work may be undertaken continuously or in blocks of six months for a maximum of a 24-month consecutive period; and
- Applicants must indicate if they are receiving additional subsidies or grants for the intended project.

Note: The grant is not intended for continued professional development learning activities, nor is it to be used to supplement an exchange program within which the physician receives a Canadian salary. Students and residents are not eligible.

Application Deadline

February 1st of each year. Complete the attached application form.

Selection

Submissions are evaluated by the International Women's Health Committee on the overall merit of the traineeship and the benefits to the physician and the host community. Evaluation criteria: The health situation and needs of the institution or region the physician will be involved in, the benefits to the individual and the host community, clearly stated and measurable objectives and the quality of the proposed activities. Submissions are then proposed for approval to the SOGC Executive Committee.

Fellowship adjudication

Payment will be issued in two installments, the first one upon grant approval and the second upon receipt of the final report, which is a detailed account of the volunteer work.

Bursary for Structured Learning Projects

Description

This bursary is designed to address the wide spread need of clinicians to have an opportunity to develop a Structured Learning Project to meet the requirements to claim credits under section 4 of the Royal College CPD categories. The Royal College description of such a project is:

“Structured learning projects are learning activities planned and developed individually or in collaboration with other members of a group or community to address a question, issue or need relevant to professional practice. Each individual is responsible for identifying and recording the outcome or impact on practice for each project.”

This specific bursary applies to the “traineeship” which is defined as follows:

These are structured learning activities planned in collaboration with a mentor or supervisor to meet a defined need. The trainee defines the learning objectives to be accomplished, describes the learning activities to meet these objectives and documents the outcomes achieved for practice. Funding is provided by the Foundation for the Promotion of Sexual and Reproductive Health (FPSRH) whose mission is to promote and support educational initiatives in the field of sexual and reproductive health.

Bursary

This bursary ranges between $3,000 and $5,000. A portion of the bursary may be given to the mentor. Up to 5 bursaries per year may be available to be granted.

Time and location of tenure

The traineeship is to be accomplished over a 6 month period and should allow time to set up, experience and write up the results to claim credits.

Eligibility

To organize a structured learning project the clinician must identify the clinical challenge (this may be a lack of knowledge or the need to develop a skill) and the process for addressing this challenge. The process will often involve the identification of a mentor and the preparation of a program which involves interaction between the mentee and mentor. It requires a commitment of time, and possibly of travel, on the part of both participants to carry out the program. Community-based physicians and University-based physicians are eligible. The applicants must be obstetrician/gynaecologist members of the SOGC in good standing and the applicants receiving additional subsidies or grants for the intended project are to declare these in their application.

Communication Plan

The promotion of this bursary will be executed in collaboration with APOG to Community-based physicians and University-based physicians. The bursary recipient shall submit a one-page biography and an electronic photograph. A photo and mention of the award will be included in the SOGC News (the Society's newsletter).

Application Deadline

Submissions are to be received by the SOGC at any time. Complete the attached application form.

Selection

The selection committee is the SOGC Executive Committee. Submissions are evaluated on the overall merit of the traineeship and the benefits to the physician and their community.

Bursary for Nurses and Midwives

Description

The purpose of this bursary is to provide financial support to nurses or midwives to enable them to meet specific learning needs and those of their community. This clinical professional development opportunity may involve, but is not restricted to, the acquisition of technical knowledge or skills in the areas of obstetrics/gynaecology and/or sexual and reproductive health. The traineeship consists of an active, individualized, and practical experience related to clearly defined educational objectives. Funding is provided by the Foundation for the Promotion of Sexual and Reproductive Health (FPSRH) whose mission is to promote and support educational initiatives in the field of sexual and reproductive health.

Bursary

This bursary consists of $3,000 for the nurse or midwife. In addition, $1,000 will be awarded to the host institution providing the traineeship to help cover expenses. Recipients will be recognized at the Annual Clinical Meeting Awards Ceremony (June). Payment will be issued in two installments, the first upon bursary announcement and the second upon receipt of the final report, which is a detailed account of the traineeship.

Time and location of tenure

The traineeship is to be provided in Canada. The Award Committee may consider an alternate location if the training sought is not available in Canada. The traineeship must take place during the 18 months following the date that the bursary was awarded.

Eligibility

- Applicant must be a nurse or midwife SOGC member in good standing;
- Applicants must indicate if they are receiving additional subsidies for the intended traineeship; and
- The learning activity or clinical update is to be of a duration of no more than 8 weeks.

Communication Plan

The bursary recipient shall submit a one-page biography and an electronic photograph. A photo and mention of the bursary will be included in the SOGC News (the Society's newsletter).

Application Deadline

Submissions must be received by the SOGC by February 15th and November 15th of each year. Complete the attached application form.

Selection

The selection committee is composed of members of the Nurse and Midwife Advisory Committees. Submissions are evaluated on the overall merit of the traineeship and the benefits to the applicant and their community.

Resident Elective Grant - International Women's Health

Description

The purpose of this grant is to assist residents wishing to pursue elective training in international women's health. The general objectives are to allow interested residents to develop a better understanding of women's health issues and the practice of obstetrics and gynaecology in a developing country, and the appreciation for the work conducted by fellow health professionals in those countries. The elective should provide the recipient of the grant with an active, individualized and practical experience in a developing country related to clearly defined education objectives. Funding is provided by the Foundation for the Promotion of Sexual and Reproductive Health whose mission is to promote and support educational initiatives in the field of sexual and reproductive health.

Grant

The grant consists of $4,000 for the resident. In addition, $1,000 will be awarded to the host institution providing the traineeship to help cover expenses. Grant recipients will be recognized at the Annual Clinical Meeting Awards Ceremony (June).

Time and location of tenure

The elective must be spent in a clinical setting in a developing country.

Eligibility

- Applicant must be a Junior Member of the SOGC in good standing;
- Applicant must be enrolled in a residency training program in Canada; and
- The learning activity is to take the form of a short period (4 weeks minimum) of clinical update.

Application Deadline

May 1st of each year. All electives taking place between July 1st (of the previous year) and June 30th of the current year are eligible. Complete the attached application form.

Selection

The Selection Committee is composed of representatives from the SOGC and/or the Junior Member Committee. Submissions are evaluated on the overall merit of the traineeship.
